

PATIENT- AND FAMILY-CENTERED CARE ...

bring orthopaedic healing to a new level.

Many women and men with hip, knee, and other joint pain never pursue treatment due to anxiety regarding surgery, but Magee's unique approach makes our patients feel more cared for and comfortable.

At the Magee Orthopaedic Program, our individualized treatment begins with comprehensive patient- and family-centered care — giving you and your family the support you need to make your journey to wellness as quick and easy as possible. Whether you are a patient undergoing joint replacement or another surgical procedure, our renowned expertise extends through your entire experience — both pre- and post-surgery. We offer efficient “one-stop” pre-op testing and involve your family members in important issues, like pain management techniques, rehabilitation, and the discharge process. This forward thinking approach has been led by Anthony DiGioia, MD, nationally recognized for his expertise in the area of patient- and family-centered care. This inclusive approach brings the peace of mind and individualized treatment Magee is known to provide. At Magee, you can trust our commitment to helping you progress at your own pace while making your complete recovery as smooth and anxiety-free as possible.

Let us help you move on with your life. To learn about Magee's services and our commitment to patient- and family-centered care, call 1-866-MyMagee or visit upmcmagee.com.
